

PLANT WHAT WHERE

COMPACT SPACE - BIG IMPACT

Just because a space is compact doesn't mean it can't pack a punch. Clever use of plants that suit the scale of the space will create a garden that will have great impact.

As with any garden, planning is key but especially so when every corner of the garden counts. Pots and raised beds can help utilise space and climbing plants, trellis and espalier will also make the most of walls and fences.

Warners have been growing a range of upright fastigate trees and shrubs for decades and we've narrowed a few of them down here to make selection easy. There are also a range of compact shrubs and ground covers that will add colour, fragrance and texture to the design.

Plant Selections:

CLIMBERS & GROUND COVERS

Cissus striata

The Miniature Grape Ivy or Ivy of Uruguay is a delicate evergreen climber that can creep its way up to 6m.

Mandevilla 'Aloha Dark Red' pbr

Mandevilla is a lush climber that flowers prolifically during the warmer months. Flowers range in colour from crisp white, to rich pinks, scarlet and burgundy

Persicaria affinis 'Dimity'

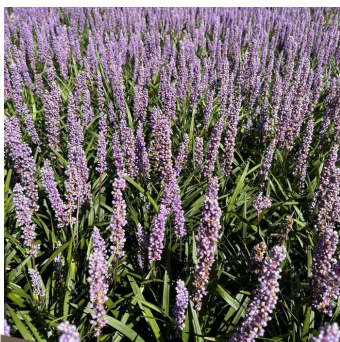

Hardy effective perennial groundcover with the benefit of showy year round colour. Soft pink flower panicles age to deep red on red stems. Foliage changes in autumn from deep green to bronze red and will form a dense matt over time.

STRUCTURAL & FOLIAGE PLANTS

Lomandra longifolia 'Tanika' pbr

Featuring stunning blue-grey weeping foliage, this variety grows in most soil types and is extremely hardy in dry conditions. These grasses look great in mass plantings and can be clipped to shape.

Liriope muscari

Ideal for containers and as feature foliage plantings. Use for decorative low borders and edging. It's hardy resilient nature makes it ideal for full sun gardens and harsh coastal conditions.

Fatsia japonica

Large palm-like, shiny leaves cover this tropical looking, evergreen shrub. Fantastic indoor plant and a super performer in the shade. In autumn expect small white flowers in round clusters, followed by black berries.

Plectranthus 'Velvet Elvis'

Ideal for low light positions in the garden. Perfect for planting around water features in low light, excellent for pots, in mass or mixed plantings. Lovely border plant for shady paths or driveways and with its stunning foliage, provides year round interest.

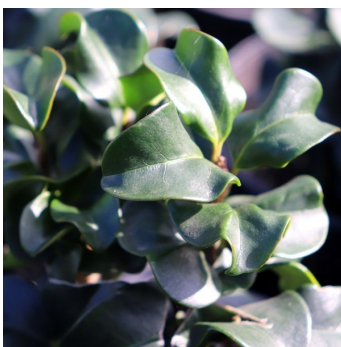

Other great performers to consider include, Agapanthus 'Baby Pete', Limonium perezii and Clivias.

SMALL TO MEDIUM SHRUBS & HEDGING

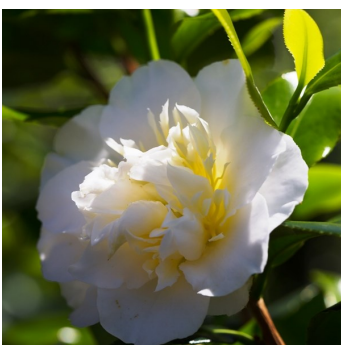

Loropetalum chinese 'Plum Gorgeous'

Stunning feature plant in landscapes providing both structure and color all year round. Informal, low hedging or mass planting in larger areas. The deep purple color foliage contrasts well with the golden reds and fine foliage of Nandina Moonbay. Works well in pots and large containers in courtyards and balconies.

Ligustrum japonicum Rotundifolium

Well suited as a hedging plant and can be trimmed to almost any form or shape. Performs well in large containers.

Camellia japonica 'Brushfields Yellow'

Camellia japonica are fantastic flowering garden shrubs and very hardy and drought tolerant once established. Suitable for growing in containers in small courtyard or entertaining areas. Perfect for formal traditional gardens as Topiary standards or small clipped hedges. Plant with other traditional favourites like Azalea, Pieris and Helleborus.

MEDIUM TO LARGE SHRUBS & SCREENING

Laurus nobilis 'Miles Choice'

This compact Bay Laurel variety is drought tolerant and is an effective hedging and screening plant. Responds well to clipping and is an excellent choice for compact designs. You might also consider the smaller-growing 'Baby Bay'^{pbr} for borders or low hedging.

Elaeocarpus eumundi

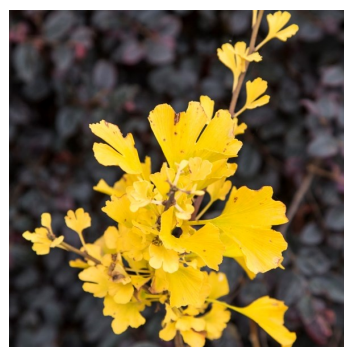

A mid-size slow growing Australian native tree, naturally found growing in rainforests along the east coast of Australia from northern New South Wales to north Queensland. While it can grow quite large in the wild, in cultivation and with regular care its narrow form makes it ideal for compact spaces.

TREES

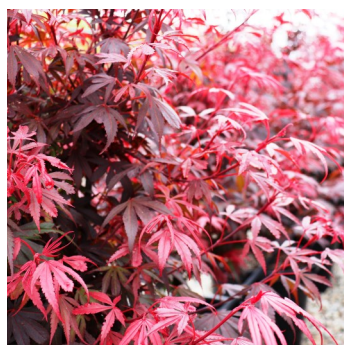

Malus trilobata

The relatively compact form of Malus trilobata makes it ideal for smaller spaces where a dramatic colourful specimen tree is desired. Its changing foliage from deep glossy green in spring to orange and scarlet in autumn and its sweet white blossoms forming decorative green crab apples give this tree even more charm.

Ginkgo biloba 'Lemonlime' Spire' pbr

Glowing lemon-yellow autumn colour follows bright lime-green summer leaves. This strongly columnar form is well suited to formal garden styles but is equally at home in a mixed planting where it provides a stunning contrasting vertical accent.

Acer palmatum 'Shaina'

A lovely compact Japanese Maple suitable for small gardens or growing in pots for courtyards or balconies. Its vibrant foliage changes through the seasons providing year round interest in many garden settings.

TOPIARY, ESPALIER & LIVING SCULPTURE

Citrus x limon Lemon 'Eureka' Trellis

Lemon trees are a staple of the Australian backyard, with backyards getting smaller you do not need to give up your beloved fruit trees, trellised Lemons are a perfect solution for small areas such as courtyards and balconies. Trellis Lemons will still yield ample fruit and are easier to harvest than on mature trees. Varieties available are 'Lisbon' and 'Eureka' only.

Buxus Balls

Buxus is widely used for formal gardens and clipped specimen plants in containers. The key varieties of sempervirens and japonica are also suitable as hedging or screening, but are particularly suited to topiary as displayed here as clipped balls.
